concerning length, audience, tone, safety, legal compliance, accessibility, and ceremonial appropriateness, and Speaker shall consider such guidance in good faith.

6. Travel, Lodging, and Approved Expenses

University may reimburse Speaker for reasonable Event-related travel, lodging, local transportation, and meal expenses only if such expenses are approved in writing in advance by an authorized University representative and documented in accordance with University policies. University shall not be responsible for expenses that are not pre-approved, are unsupported by required documentation, or exceed approved limits.

7. Recording, Photography, Livestream, and Publicity

Speaker acknowledges that the Event may be photographed, recorded, livestreamed, broadcast, captioned, translated, archived, and shared by University. Speaker grants University a non-exclusive, worldwide, royalty-free license to use Speaker's name, image, likeness, biography, voice, and Event remarks in connection with Event promotion, University websites and social media, livestreaming and archived recordings, news and alumni communications, institutional communications, accessibility, and non-commercial educational and historical purposes. 8. Intellectual Property

Speaker retains ownership of any pre-existing intellectual property and original remarks authored by Speaker. University may reproduce, excerpt, display, distribute, livestream, archive, and otherwise use the remarks as reasonably necessary for Event-related, educational, archival, accessibility, news, and institutional purposes.

9. Public Announcements
