Your Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker, requesting O-1 nonimmigrant classification and, if applicable, a change of status or extension of stay, was received and is pending as of [MM/DD/YYYY].

The filing or pendency of Form I-129 does not, by itself, grant O-1 status, extend your current immigration status, or authorize employment. Your ability to remain and work in the United States depends on your existing immigration status, your period of authorized stay, and whether the petition includes a timely and otherwise eligible request for a change of status or extension of stay.

A pending O-1 petition does not prevent U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) or U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) from enforcing the immigration laws of the United States or, where legally appropriate, initiating removal proceedings.

If you leave the United States while a request to change status to O-1 is pending, USCIS may consider the change-of-status request abandoned. USCIS may continue processing the underlying O-1 petition for consular notification. If the petition is approved for consular processing, you generally must obtain an O-1 visa from a U.S. consulate, unless exempt from the visa requirement, and seek admission to the United States in O-1 status before beginning O-1 employment.

You must report a change of address to USCIS within 10 days of moving by following the instructions on the USCIS Change of Address webpage. Changing your address with the U.S. Postal Service does not update your address with USCIS.
