In the Matter of:

SAMMY NAWALY ABDELLA

O-1A Beneficiary

DECLARATION OF SAMMY NAWALY ABDELLA REGARDING JANE SUN AND JOHN WU'S COMBINED US$180,000 INVESTMENT IN ELLIS

I, Sammy Nawaly Abdella, declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America that the following is true and correct to the best of my knowledge:

1. I am the founder of Ellis, an artificial intelligence company developing technology to make employment-based immigration case preparation faster, more accurate, and less costly. I submit this declaration in support of my O-1A petition.
2. Jane Sun and John Wu invested a combined total of US$180,000 in Ellis, the company I founded and lead. The investment is documented by the applicable signed investment instruments and funds-transfer records.
3. Jane Sun is the Chief Executive Officer and a director of Trip.com Group. Before becoming CEO, she served as the company's Chief Financial Officer, Chief Operating Officer, and Co-President. Her record of scaling a major global technology-enabled service, managing international operations, and evaluating finance and growth makes her especially qualified to assess Ellis. Her experience in global travel and cross-border services is also directly relevant to Ellis's work at the intersection of technology, immigration, and international mobility.
4. John Wu is the founding partner and chairman of FengHe Fund Management and previously served as an angel investor and Chief Technology Officer of Alibaba Group after earlier technology work at Yahoo. His experience building internet software, leading product and technical architecture, and investing in high-growth technology companies is directly relevant to Ellis as an AI and software startup.
5. Their backgrounds make Jane Sun and John Wu sophisticated and credible evaluators of Ellis's technology, market need, scalability, and commercial potential. Their decision to invest substantial personal capital provides independent commercial validation from successful leaders in fields directly related to Ellis.

6. Their investment also reflects confidence in my work and leadership. I created Ellis's vision and lead its product development, technology strategy, customer development, commercial strategy, and fundraising. Ellis would not exist or operate in its present form without my work, and my role is leading, critical, and essential to the company.
7. USCIS guidance recognizes that, for a startup business, significant funding from angel investors or similar funders, when commensurate with the company's stage and industry, may be considered a positive factor regarding the startup's distinguished reputation. The US$180,000 investment from Jane Sun and John Wu is therefore relevant evidence of Ellis's reputation and of the commercial significance of the work I lead.
