

Account

Dashboard

My Courses

Courses

Groups

Calendar

Inbox

History

Help

Dashboard

Today

February 10

Nothing Planned Yet

Tomorrow, February 11

Nothing Planned Yet

Thursday, February 12

Nothing Planned Yet

Friday, February 13

COMSW4170_001_2026_1 - USER INTERFACE DESIGN

COMSW4170_001_2026_1 - USER INTERFACE DESIGN ASSIGNMENT

Warm-Up Homework 04: JavaScript Widgets and MVC

1 PTS

DUE: 11:59 PM

Saturday, February 14

Nothing Planned Yet

Sunday, February 15

Nothing Planned Yet

Monday, February 16

COMSW4170_001_2026_1 - USER INTERFACE DESIGN

COMSW4170_001_2026_1 - USER INTERFACE DESIGN ASSIGNMENT

Main Homework 04: JavaScript Widgets and MVC Copy

9 PTS

DUE: 11:59 PM

No more items to show

INSTRUCTURE

Privacy Policy

Cookie Notice

Acceptable Use Policy

Facebook

X.com

Account

Dashboard

My Courses

Courses

Groups

Calendar

Inbox

History

Help

ENGLGS1010_816_2025_3 - UNIVERSITY WRITING > Syllabus

Fall 2025

Home

Assignments

Discussions

Grades

People

Files

Syllabus

BigBlueButton

Collaborations

Chat

Research Guide

Course Info

Library Reserves

Textbooks

Mailtool

Course Video Recordings (Panopto)

Zoom Class Sessions

You@Columbia

ENGLGS1010_816_2025_3 - UNIVERSITY WRITING

Jump to Today

IMPORTANT LINKS:

Homework: Essay 1, Essay 2, Essay 3

Slides

Culture Trip Requirements

Close reading example

Essay 1 Reverse Outline

Essay 2 Reverse Outline

Paraphrase examples

Reverse Research

University Writing CC1010-816

Fall 2025

TR 2:40-3:55

408A Philosophy Hall

Instructor: Emily M. Suazo

ems2314@columbia.edu

Office hours: Tuesday 4pm-5pm and Thursday 4pm-5pm in 310 Philosophy Hall, or by appointment

Mailbox address: 310 Philosophy Hall

Syllabus

Course Description

University Writing teaches undergraduates to read and write essays in order to participate in intellectual communities at Columbia and beyond. Rather than approaching writing as an innate talent, this course teaches writing as a learned skill that can be developed. Students will use writing as a way of thinking.

The course invites students to mobilize the linguistic diversity that each person brings to the class. You will learn to make strategic decisions in order to convey your ideas in language that engages readers.

Learning Objectives

View Course Stream

View Course Calendar

View Course Notifications

To Do

Nothing for now

< February 2026 >

25	26	27	28	29	30	31
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
1	2	3	4	5	6	7

Assignments are weighted by group:

Group	Weight
Essay 1	20%
Essay 2	25%
Essay 3	40%
Essay 4	15%
Total	100%

Recent Feedback

Nothing for now

Course Chat

Account

Dashboard

My Courses

Courses

Groups

Calendar

Inbox

History

Help

Course Video Recordings (Panopto)

Zoom Class Sessions

You@Columbia

ENGLGS1010_816_2025_3 - UNIVERSITY WRITING > Assignments > Essay 3 Prompt: Researched Conversation

Home

Assignments

Discussions

Grades

People

Files

Syllabus

BigBlueButton

Collaborations

Chat

Research Guide

Course Info

Library Reserves

Textbooks

Mailtool

Course Video Recordings (Panopto)

Zoom Class Sessions

You@Columbia

Essay 3 Prompt: Researched Conversation

New Attempt

Submission

✓ Submitted!

Dec 6, 2025 at 6:13am

Submission Details

Download essay3.pdf

Grade: A (100 pts possible)

Graded Anonymously: no

Comments: No Comments

Due No Due Date

Points 100

Submitting a file upload

Essay 3 Prompt: Researched Conversation

Task: Write a 1500 to 2750-word (you cannot go over this limit) researched conversation essay that raises a compelling scholarly problem and makes sense of that problem by putting at least 6 context, critical, and/or theoretical voices in conversation, along with your own scholarly voice. The essay should be formatted according to MLA style, 9th edition. Your audience, as always, is the naive reader.

Rationale: This project will put you in a situation that's familiar to seasoned researchers: observing an element of an exhibit which destabilizes a status quo, articulating that observation as a scholarly problem, and launching into research to make sense of the problem. Research should be used to craft a compelling story that taps into readers' intellects, emotions, and senses; the exhibit should find its seed in one of the films that we watched and discussed, and pertain at least loosely to the theme of our class.

You will gather approximately 6-10 sources that you ascertain are both credible and relevant to your project. These sources may be broken out roughly as follows:

- 1-3 objects of analysis that present your exhibit or aspects of it.
- 1-3 context sources that help to contextualize your project.
- 1-2 theory sources that help you to define a clear theory, conceptual framework, or methodology to focus how you analyze your objects of analysis.
- 2-3 critical sources that engage in the argument of your essay.
- Overall, an effective project will include a balance of popular (e.g. magazine, newspaper, television show, film) and academic (e.g., published in a scholarly journal) sources.

Objectives:

- Apply the key skills we've learned so far: do textual analysis; define a problem, design a project that carries stakes, make a claim; put texts in conversation (intertextuality); synthesize thinkers' ideas; complicate your thinking
- Acquire research skills for locating critical, theory, and context sources
- Develop sound strategies to manage and cite sources ethically
- Raise a problem from an object of analysis
- Stage a richly-contextualized conversation
- Craft an original claim that advances an existing scholarly conversation
- Produce reader-based prose and structures

Tips

Course Chat

Account

Dashboard

My Courses

Courses

Groups

Calendar

Inbox

History

Help

Course Video Recordings (Panopto)

Zoom Class Sessions

You@Columbia

ENGLGS1010_816_2025_3 - UNIVERSITY WRITING > Assignments > Essay 3 Prompt: Researched Conversation

Home

Assignments

Discussions

Grades

People

Files

Syllabus

BigBlueButton

Collaborations

Chat

Research Guide

Course Info

Library Reserves

Textbooks

Mailtool

Course Video Recordings (Panopto)

Zoom Class Sessions

You@Columbia

When encountering a new and large project, it can be tempting to revert back to kinds of writing that feel familiar, for instance writing an informational report (where you compile a lot of information and share it, similar to a Wikipedia page) or deciding on a claim and searching for evidence to prove it. Remember that this is a researched conversation essay. Mobilize everything you've learned so far about the genre as an inquiry-driven piece of writing.

More sources are not necessarily better. Your reader will benefit more from thoughtful, close engagement with fewer texts than surface-level readings of more texts.

Be sure that your object of analysis is a citable text, event, etc. rather than something ephemeral like a concept or trend. Essays that don't anchor themselves in some actual thing in the world struggle to keep readers' attention because they can feel like airy theorizing that lacks real-world significance.

The CU librarians are dedicated to helping you find and select resources efficiently and wisely. Don't feel shy about reaching out to them when you have questions.

File Upload

Upload a file, or choose a file you've already uploaded.

Drag a file here, or

Choose a file to upload

Use Webcam

+ Add Another File

Click here to find a file you've already uploaded

Comments...

Cancel Submit Assignment

Course Chat

Submission

✓ Submitted!

Dec 6, 2025 at 6:13am

Submission Details

Download essayz3.pdf

Grade: A (100 pts possible)

Graded Anonymously: no

Comments:

No Comments

- The final feedback is the confirmation text "Submitted!"

2. Swiping down is quicker than hunting for a tiny menu button and tapping it. It's one easy motion, so you mess up less and get to the menu faster.

3. Autoplay / "play next episode" saves you from clicking "next" every time. Streaming apps added it to keep things smooth (and to keep people watching longer). I usually leave it on because it's convenient, but I turn off autoplay previews because they're annoying.

4. DoorDash: it saves my address and card and lets me reorder with one tap. That cuts out a bunch of typing and extra steps, so ordering is way faster.

<https://youtube.com/shorts/koaurFyhwvc?si=-TqrXXjdw81c813N>

https://youtube.com/shorts/bYitr2FuiE?si=Pd96-Ez8qtfx_kCh

